Report

In summary, our balance has increased by about $2,000 over the last financial year. This was a generic year, with most of the money going out to maintain our web pages and other services.

We have sufficient funds to back one or more campaigns, depending on how serious they are, or perhaps one by-election. However, we could not field candidates in any number in an election without some serious fundraising.

We have received membership donations to bolster our funds, and I do appreciate the ongoing support of members outside of a particular election. There is still much we can do to remain relevant outside of an election, and I hope we will be able to do that.
